The Royal Institution of Naval Architects – What it is and What it does

Presented by Jaime Perez Martinez MSc BEng

Technical Assurance Manager, Royal Institution of Naval Architects

Founded in 1860 in London to "advance the art and science of ship design", today the Royal Institution of Naval Architects plays a key role in the careers of many maritime engineering professionals, across a wide variety of roles.

This talk will discuss not only the Institution's history and purpose, but also its current and future work, its organisation, the role and importance of its members, and the benefits of membership to all those interested in the Maritime Sector.

The talk will be presented in person by Jamie Perez Martinez, Technical Assurance manager at RINA's London headquarters. Refreshments will be available from 5:45pm, and the talk will be followed by a Q&A session and networking opportunity. The talk will also be available online via the above Zoom details.

The talk is free and open to all those interested
